We had been singing the same niggun (wordless melody) for five minutes, and we were just reaching the musical peak of the song. Daphna and Yoel of the Israeli prayer group Nava Tehila (“beautiful praise”) strummed their guitars in the center of our circle in the Stern Chapel, as our percussionist provided a steady, pulsing heartbeat on the djembe. We were all dancing and singing, louder and more energetic with each chorus, when suddenly the guitars dropped out. All that was left was the strong percussive tones of the djembe, supporting a powerful choir of magnificent a cappella voices. I looked around and saw tears of joy streaming down people’s faces as they continued to participate with full body, breath and spirit. We brought the song to its gentle conclusion, and what followed was a full minute of prayerful silence. In that silence, we were open and aware, awake and inspired, held up by one another and in touch with our deepest selves. The moment of silence following the song was the ultimate expression of oneness.

Music is a universal and unifying language. It makes us feel something that words alone cannot capture. It enriches our prayer and fills our souls with nourishment. It has the potential to tear down the barriers that divide us, to melt away hate and connect us deeply with one another, serving as a pathway to peace and understanding. Joey Weisenberg, a well-known composer and leader of communal song, describes the feeling in his new book, “The Torah of Music.” “Music cuts away extraneous noise to reveal the divine song hidden in quiet moments. Music carves silence from sound; it organizes the chaotic sounds and allows us to find the spaces in between. In these spaces, we can hear the sacred nuances of the world.”

Joey also teaches that singing together is not ultimately about singing but about listening. The words we say every day, “Sh’ma Yisrael”—“Listen, Israel,” remind us that this is at the core of all we do. When we are huddled closely together, we can truly listen to each other. We can hear the songs of our own souls and of the souls of those around us, and, if we listen carefully enough, we can hear the song of creation. The Psalmist proclaims: “Ya’alos sadai v’chol asher bo! Az y’ran’nu kol atzei ya’ar.”—“Let the field and all that is in it exult! Then all the trees of the woods shall sing for joy.”

Here at Temple, we’ve begun to hit our stride as communal singers. Whether on Shabbat or in circle chanting with Nava Tehila or Dan Nichols, we have opportunities for all to find their voices and connect with the Divine. Please join us for a very special Shabbat morning in song on April 21 with Dan Nichols, and at our Soul Singing experience on May 16.

One of my favorite Chasidic teachings from Rabbi Pinchas of Koretz says, “When a man is singing and cannot lift his voice, and another comes and sings with him, another who can lift her voice, then the first will be able to lift his voice too. That is the secret of the bond between spirit and spirit.” Someone is waiting in the wings to lift your voice, and you are the perfect person to be able to lift the voice of another.
Temple will honor those married for 50+ years and those who have been members for 50+ years.

Radio Sermons Class Turns 5

The popular Rabbi Levi A. Olan radio sermons class turns five this spring, and to celebrate the occasion, Rabbi David Stern will speak at the beginning of the session on Tuesday, April 3, from 12:15-1:30pm in Linz Hall. Other special guests include Tim Binkley, archivist at the Bridwell Library at SMU, and Anita Olan, granddaughter of Rabbi Olan. The spring series concludes on Tuesday, April 10.

Rabbi Olan spoke on important issues in the 1960s and 1970s, and was often referred to as the conscience of Dallas. His sermons still ring true today. The original tapes were digitized and are now available on the SMU Bridwell Library website and YouTube.

Begin Again With Mussar

Limited spaces are available for a new introductory course to Mussar, a Jewish path to leading a holier, more fulfilled life. Season of Mussar 1, from April 24 to July 17, is a 13-lesson program to help individuals find balance and strength through the growth of key inner traits such as humility, gratitude, trust and honor.

The class, facilitated by Michael Selz, is open to newcomers or previous students who want to repeat the experience. The course involves partner learning, individual practice and communal learning in a va’ad, or group. It will be held in Archives on Tuesday evenings from 7-8:30pm.

Fee: $136
RSVP: participate.tedallas.org/som1selz
Registration deadline: April 15

The caller was frantic. Medical bills were mounting from his wife’s recent surgery. His son wants to go to Jewish camp. He hates to say no, but he feels he doesn’t have a choice. Could Temple help?

She was overwhelmed. Her spouse was requiring multiple kinds of physical care. Life continued with work and household management. Could Temple recommend where to start?

At Temple, the answer is, simply, we care and in all dimensions. Whether you know Temple caring through hospital visits and Mitzvah Meals, by cancer and grief support groups or through our “No Barriers” program of financial assistance, our commitment to supporting our community at its most vulnerable is unchanged.

“A year ago, under the direction of the Board of Trustees, Temple created the No Barriers program to underscore our commitment to participation in Temple life regardless of financial ability,” says Karen Hoffman, Director of Congregational Engagement. “Over the months, we realized that financial needs were usually tied to pastoral issues, such as a crisis in the family. In response, we are continuing to look at staff structure to serve those needs.”

The recently created Department of Member Support is your go-to-team for letting Temple know of any help you need. It is headed by Meredith Pryzant, Director of Member Support, and Ellen McIntosh, Member Care Coordinator. Together they work with clergy and staff to identify support and create a caring, confidential team to help find solutions for members.

“In my work with No Barriers over the past year, it became clear that we couldn’t separate out financial issues from other life issues. Ellen and I are committed to working with all members in need to ensure that Temple is there for them,” says Meredith. Find her at mpryzant@tedallas.org, 214.706.0000, ext. 122.

A new support group for caregivers is being formed in partnership with Jewish Family Service. It will be held on the first Tuesday of every month, on the same day that The Well, Temple’s new activity program for those with Alzheimer’s and other dementias, is scheduled. (See p. 5 for more information about The Well.) It will meet in the Archives room. The group is open to the community and is not limited to caregivers with attendees at The Well. Abby Goodman, a licensed therapist from JFS, will facilitate. The program begins May 1. Registration is not required. If you’d like to refer someone, please contact Meredith Pryzant, Director of Member Support, at mpryzant@tedallas.org
“It provides great pleasure to Barbara Miller and myself to see how happy the attendees of the service (at Belmont Village) are. They light up when the prayers are sung (mostly by us, off key) and that they know Temple Emanu-El cares about them.”

Marty Mintz

The volunteer was searching. She knew that she wanted to be a source of comfort to her community, but she hadn’t found the right fit. Temple is such a big place; how could she possibly make a difference?

Showing up gets in your blood around here. Engagement with Temple isn’t a one-time commitment. It takes sustained energy over months, even years, to keep our many projects going. Here are several that are all about human touches, and could use some of your tender loving care.

Dinner at The Bridge:
Temple serves dinner at The Bridge homeless shelter 2-3 times per month on Sundays. Be part of the team that helps add dignity and sustenance to our Dallas neighbors.

Careline:
If you have an emergency after business hours, a Careline volunteer will take your call and connect you to the right person. Help us grow our dedicated cadre of dedicated Careliners by joining our team.

Challah Angels:
Helpers are needed to bake challot for services and for welcome home bags from the hospital.

Dinners for New Families:
Help make the first Shabbat after bringing home a new baby a little easier with a special delivery dinner.

Visitors to Hospitals and Assisted Living Centers:
While the building may be at 8500 Hillcrest, the spirit of Temple is all over town, in the hearts of our members, wherever they are.

Dinners for New Families: Stacy Bruce, sbruce@cobbmartinez.com, 214.417.4645

The bar mitzvah ceremony was beautiful, and the family was delighted that their friends and family shared in their joy for a delicious and bountiful Shabbat luncheon. The caterer was so generous, too; what on earth would they do with the leftovers?
