I write this to share my sense of joy and excitement at a decision reached by our Board of Trustees at its October meeting: a unanimous vote to engage in the search for an Assistant Cantor for Temple Emanu-El.

As some of you may remember, when we first began the deliberation a number of years ago to hire the first cantor in our history, I said that if we get this right, we would soon recognize the need to have more than one cantor. And while I make no claims to being an ace prognosticator, in this case the prediction was accurate: in Cantor Richard Cohn, we have gotten this splendidly right. In so many dimensions of congregational life – from life cycle events to children to adults to seniors to worship to our choir – the promise and future possibilities for music and spirituality in our community have blossomed.

We all know intuitively that music is a powerful source of both inspiration and connection, and we have only begun to explore the new ways in which music can deepen our spiritual lives at Temple – in creating a stronger sense of relationship to one another, to our texts and tradition, and to all the deeds in the world towards which our Judaism beckons us.

An assistant cantor will allow us to build on the beauty we have felt in worship through Cantor Cohn’s collaboration with our student cantors and our magnificent choir over recent years: first with student cantor Rollin Simmons, and for more than two years now with our current student cantor, Leslie Niren. What a blessing it is to have Cantor Cohn as a co-leader with our rabbis in worship, and what blessings these students have brought.

While both of our cantors will serve every dimension of our congregation, a primary focus of the new position will be to create a sense of musical connection for youth and families, helping us to build our children’s sense of identity and joy in being Jews. We have lacked a substantive music program in our religious school for too long. The assistant cantor will provide comprehensive cantorial involvement in youth education, from our Early Childhood Education Center (ECEC) through our new high school programs, while also working with religious school students and their families, with youth groups and young adults.

The assistant cantor will play a significant role in our Bar and Bat Mitzvah program, working with students from the beginning of their preparation right along to the service itself, and helping to create relationships that will deepen our kids’ sense of belonging at Temple. The assistant cantor will sustain a dynamic cohort of song-leaders, and build opportunities for young singers to participate in contemporary vocal ensembles that reflect the wonderful choral tradition of our congregation.

The proposal came to the Board after wonderful work led by First Vice President Scott McCartney and by Cantor Cohn. Numerous Temple groups participated in the development of these ideas, including the Choir, the Music Committee, Young Adults, the Religious School Committee and the ECEC Parents Association. Our staff and lay leadership have worked together to devise a strategy that will bring the blessing of this new position with only minimal budgetary impact.

A search committee, appointed by President Robin Kosberg in consultation with Cantor Cohn and me, is in formation and preparing to lead us in the sacred work of selecting the best candidate for the position. We will seek the Assistant Cantor who will help us realize the promise of prayer, spirit and community which lie before us: in the words of the Psalmist, Shiru lAdonai shir chadash – Sing unto the Lord a new song!
Blessed are You, Adonai, our God, Ruler of the Universe, who has sanctified us with Your commandments and commanded us to kindle the lights of Chanukah.

Temple welcomes Julie Silver for Artist-in-Residence Weekend

By Charlie Redden

Art. Soul. Spirit. When Julie Silver starts to sing, listeners struggle for superlatives to describe the experience.

As Artist in Residence at Temple Emanu-El Dec. 14-16, Silver has multiple opportunities to share with this community the artistic gifts that have made her one of the most important influences in the writing and performance of modern Jewish music.

Julie will be on hand at the 6:00 p.m. service on Friday, Dec. 14 for the Chanukah candle lighting and will lead a Shabbat songfest at 7:45 after the celebratory adult and family dinners following services.

She will then be back for the 9:00 a.m. Tot Shabbat on Saturday morning, Dec. 15, and will entertain Saturday evening at 7:00 p.m. at a Young Adults Havdalah celebration.

And at 10:45 a.m. on Sunday, Dec. 16, she will be featured in a Chanukah bash that includes food and activities as well as music for Temple members of all ages.

For almost 25 years Silver has been touring the country and the world with her blend of original compositions, American folk tunes, and modern and traditional Jewish music. She is on the road 25 to 30 times a year and has sold tens of thousands of albums, including the Parent’s Choice award winner “For Love to Grow.”

But Silver will tell you that what she’s all about is creating a bond with a live audience. “I see seven-year-olds sitting next to seventy-year-olds, and it’s the same show: me and my guitar, folk music, children’s songs, religious songs, with humor and what I believe are universal values,” she told an interviewer. “Whether I’m a guest cantorial soloist, an artist in residence, or performing a concert, my whole focus is on connecting with the audience.”

And everywhere she goes, that connection resonates with listeners. “Julie is more than an entertainer,” said fellow singer-songwriter Craig Taubman after a performance. “She is a muse, a presence, and a spirit that stays with you long after the show has ended.”

In an interview for The Window, Julie said she was excited about making an overdue return to Dallas for the first time in 15 or 16 years. Being here for Chanuka will afford her an opportunity to go in depth with her holiday music, but she also expects to delve into her wide range of secular and Jewish arts. “I try not to limit myself to any style. I surrender to whatever mood comes over me. I never say goodbye to any muse.”

She will be drawing on her 2007 album “It’s Chanukah Time,” the first album of Jewish music offered by the giant Barnes & Noble chain, for the Dallas performance. But the children’s and holiday music is only a part of her wide repertoire.

Silver knew what road she would be taking in life at the age of four or five when she attended a Friday night Shabbat service and went home to sit at the piano with her grandmother and relive the music she had heard. Growing up in Boston, by 15 or 16, she was already writing songs, listening to Boston Celtic and American folk music and drawing on influences from the Chieftains and Mary Black to Bonnie Raitt, Joni Mitchell, Dan Fogelberg and James Taylor. Livingston Taylor became a friend and mentor, along with Peter Yarrow of Peter, Paul & Mary.

The Chanukah Blessings

The first two are offered each night:

Baruch ata, Adonai Elohenu melech ha-Olam,
asher ki’d-sha’nu b’mitzvotav v’tzi’vnu l’hadlik ner shel Chanukah.

Blessed are You, Adonai, our God, Ruler of the Universe, who has sanctified us with Your commandments and commanded us to kindle the lights of Chanukah.

Baruch ata, Adonai Elohenu melech ha-Olam,
she-a-sa ni-sim la-avo-tei-nu ba-yamim ha-hem ba-z’man ha-zeh.

Blessed are You, Adonai, our God, Ruler of the Universe, who has kept us alive, sustained us, and enabled us to celebrate this season.

A Spiritual Thought for Each Night of Chanukah

In our Hebrew alphabet, each letter corresponds to a number. Alef, one, bet, two, and so on. During the festival of Chanukah, we add one more candle each night, counting up to eight nights.

As you light each candle, consider the mystical meaning behind the first eight letters of the Hebrew alphabet, and the ways you can grow spiritually this season.

The First Night, Alef: The letter alef originally looked like a circle with horns, an ox. The ox was used to pull plows and the plows were used to turn the earth. If the soil is not turned, however, it becomes hard-packed and no longer capable of bringing forth life. We turn the soil of self through spiritual practice. On this night, ask yourself where you need turning. Where are you hard-packed by habit?

The Second Night, Bet: The letter bet is closed on the top, bottom, and back, meaning that your history (the back), your birth (the bottom), and your death (the top) are closed to you; that is to say you cannot escape the fact of your biology, the things you have done, and your mortality. Only the present is open to you. On this night, ask yourself where you are wasting energy bemoaning those things over which you have no control. What can you do to pull these energies back and refocus them on things you can control?

The Third Night, Gimmel: The letter gimmel was originally a stick figure of a one hump gamal (camel), and represents your ability to cross deserts. The desert represents times of barrenness, dryness, lack of creativity. On this night, remind yourself that Judaism is a desert faith, born from the vast emptiness that is the desert, and see if you can hear as Hosea did the voice of God saying, “I will call you to the desert and there I will speak to your heart.”

The Fourth Night, Dalet: Dalet is a door and represents openings and closings. At each moment of your life there are doors. They are meant to be walked through, and as you do you close behind you. You cannot know what is on the other side, and you cannot go back once a door is passed through. You cannot know for certain if any given door is the right door. It is only the next door. On this night, remind yourself of the fundamental not-knowingness of life, and ask where you may be standing before a door too afraid to open and walk through. Acknowledge the fear, and walk on.

The Fifth Night, Heh. The letter heh is found twice in the sacred name of God known as the Tetragrammaton—yud, heh, vov, heh—and connotes divine revelation. Its sound, resembling a mere exhalation, teaches that attentive focusing upon the breath is a means of spiritual development. On this night, as you watch the candle light, focus on your breath. What are ways you can pause and reflect within the rhythm of your life?

The Sixth Night, Vav. The letter vav is the Hebrew prefix meaning “and”—that which joins together words, sentences, and concepts. Vav signifies that things seemingly separate and even contradictory—such as in a conflict—can be viewed as comprising a higher unity. How can you help create more interconnectedness between yourself and others? Between people?

The Seventh Night, Zayin. Zayin begins the Hebrew words zahar (to remember) and zikaron (remembrance). On this night, we remember the Maccabees, and those Jews throughout history, who fought for their right to keep Jewish tradition alive. As you light the seventh candle, remember a person in your life who has inspired you to be more courageous.

The Eighth Night, Chet. The eighth letter of the Hebrew alef-bet was originally the symbol of an enclosure, a pen. Chet is your ability to hold things. Ultimately what you are asked to hold is the paradox of existence. On this night, look to see if your life is defined by “either/or” or “both/and.” How wide is your pen? Is it wide enough to allow for contradiction and paradox, certainty and uncertainty, knowing and unknowing, health and illness, good and evil, or is it looking to hold only one half of reality? The ultimate spiritual work is to hold rather than to heal. What can you do to expand your capacity to hold?

WRJ Interfaith Shabbat on February 1 welcomes First Unitarian Church of Dallas
Rabbi Asher Knight will be joined by First Unitarian Church of Dallas minister Reverend Aaron White for the WRJ Interfaith Shabbat on Friday, February 1 at the 6:15 p.m. service. Temple and First Unitarian Church of Dallas have a historical connection that dates back to 1899 when First Unitarian’s first meeting occurred at Temple Emanu-El on May 12, 1899. The Rev. Daniel Limbaugh was invited by TE’s rabbi at the time, Dr. George Kohut. Rev. Limbaugh addressed the Unitarian tradition’s indebtedness to Judaism and also organized Unitarians to join in community.

In 1999, when the First Unitarian celebrated their Centennial, it was celebrated at Temple Emanu-El. Reverend White and Rabbi Knight worked together on the ten-year Sept. 11 memorial service. Temple and First Unitarian have worked on common social justice issues in Dallas around education, QUEST Dallas, DME Exchange, and Parkland.

The celebration of Chanukah concludes at the very beginning of Tevet, as we increase the candles on the menorah on the seventh and eighth nights, the moon reappears in the sky reminding us of our capacity to bring light into the world and of the ever present light of God even in the darkest of times.

Early Childhood Education

Early Childhood Education Center hosts its first Fall Shuk

Nature, education and commerce converge for a successful event

With an aroma of hot apple cider wafting through the chilly air, the Temple Emanu-El Early Childhood Education Center (“TE-ECEC”) held its first annual Fall Shuk on Friday, October 26, 2012. Shoppers enjoyed a wonderful assortment of local produce from Walnut Creek Farms, delicious challah and whole grain breads from Empire Bakery, beautiful merchandise from Temple Emanu-El’s Judaic Treasures gift shop, and a fabulous selection of items that were handmade by the preschool students.

The opportunity to prepare for the Fall Shuk proved to be very educational for the young students. Whether they were creating products for the Shuk - including garden-grown birdhouse gourds, gourmet dog biscuits, organic potpourri, pumpkin butter, and harvest soup - or experiencing their first opportunity to be consumers spending the allowance their parents had provided, the children were integrally involved in the success of this event. As they carefully selected beautiful fresh fruits and vegetables to purchase, the children demonstrated an ability to make healthy food choices and they applied their growing understanding of the Seed to Table concepts that are promoted through the TE-ECEC’s Gan Shalom and Culinary Arts programs. Additionally, the students beamed with pride as they watched customers purchase the products that they had created and as they chose perfect gifts for their friends and families. While the vendors and shoppers braved the cold during this outdoor market, their hearts felt warm as they visited with friends, selected wonderful seasonal items and raised funds for the Gan Shalom. Demand for the products was so high that the merchandise completely sold out before the scheduled closing time.

The Temple Emanu-El Early Childhood Education Center creates a dynamic, engaging, child centered community characterized by developmentally appropriate learning, risk-free exploration, genuine diversity, and consistent respect.

If you would like more information about this event or to schedule an interview with Shelly Sender, Director of Early Childhood Education, please contact Glenda Gelgor at 214.706.0020 or ggelgor@tedallas.org.

Pat Peiser recognized as Volunteer of Month at DME Open House

Thirty people attended the Open House for DME Exchange at our new offices, 12015 Shiloh Rd Suite 130 Dallas, TX 75228. With ten guests bringing equipment for donation, our warehouse is nearly full. “We still need manual wheelchairs and crutches,” said President, Stanley Pomarantz, MD. You can drop off equipment donations on Tuesdays or Thursdays at our offices, but please don’t take them to Temple! We’ve got the location, a great workspace, the hours established, and a wonderful Senior Technician, Terry Absher. Terry’s family and church members pitched in as volunteers to help complete the painting, plumbing, carpet cleaning and electrical work on our new facility. Attending multiple work sessions, Dr. Art Weinberg, Don Wolman and Pat Peiser all got exercise by moving furniture and slinging paint to meet our October 20 deadline. “Pat has been with our project from Day 1. No volunteer job is too big or too small for Pat. At age 90, she’s our Energizer Bunny and Volunteer of the Month,” said Jim Waldorf, the Interim ED.

With a generous contribution from Temple Emanu-El WRJ/Sisterhood as a catalyst, we now have the financial confidence to begin operations. Right now, we need VOLUNTEERS. Some jobs are for work on Tuesdays and Thursdays at our facility, such as reception, warehouse and clerical duties. Other jobs have a flexible, at-home schedule. You could choose to volunteer once per month or once per week. Complete the volunteer training and you’ll get a DME hat. Complete 100 hours of volunteer work, and you’ll get a DME shirt. Call 214.997.3639 (DMEX) or email jwaldorfdmex@gmail.com to sign up.

DAFTY members embrace many opportunities for Social Justice

By Megan Sims, DAFTY Board member and Steve Buchalter, Director of Youth Engagement

Each year, DAFTY adopts a Social Action theme for the year. This theme is chosen by the DAFTY Board, and is usually drawn from a social justice issue that we care about as a youth group, in combination with some of the initiatives that Temple as a whole are taking on.

This year, DAFTY is taking on the theme of “abuse.” This theme allows us to join the North American Federation of Temple Youth (NFTY) as they focus on learning about mental health and related action issues such as bullying, to work with local organizations that address child abuse, and to join in on Temple initiatives related to environmental abuse.

At our September event, we heard a speaker from Dallas Children’s Advocacy Center, Ellen Magnis, who spoke to a group of DAFTY members about child abuse. We also toured the garden, and gave an overview of the social action activities DAFTY will be doing throughout the year, giving our members an opportunity to find causes they’re passionate about and get involved through DAFTY volunteer projects or on their own. At our Yom Kippur teen service, we created the materials for about 300 coloring and activity books for the kids at the DCAC.

In October, we celebrated Sukkot with our friends from SHFTY, Temple Shalom’s youth group. In honor of the harvest festival, we spent some time with Hannah Delagi and Katie Lerer, two of our teens who are managing DAFTY’s efforts in Temple’s Community Garden this year. Hannah and Katie showed a film and led a discussion about food deserts, which helped us to understand some of the challenges faced by our neighbors in Vickery Meadow. Alongside our friends from Temple Shalom, we planted DAFTY’s bed in the garden, and helped prepare the garden for its fall planting. A big thank you to Ruth Klein and Mark Satinsky for helping to put together our project in the garden and making it possible for us to get our hands dirty!

Through these events, DAFTY was given the opportunity to get involved with different issues and causes through learning and hands on activities. These two events have set the stage for DAFTY’s social action efforts throughout the year. As a youth group, we want to focus a portion of our energies on Tikkun Olam. Thus, we give our members the opportunity to give back and participate in social action events with the hope that we will create more involved members of DAFTY and Temple as a whole.

Congregants of all ages create soup jars for Vickery Meadow at Sukkot

90 jars of soup were created at Sukkot Under the Stars for our neighbors in Vickery Meadow. Temple members of all ages chose from a variety of beans to put into their jar, and then created a small bag of spices to go at the top. Jars were then closed and instructions were tied on in both English and Spanish. The soup jars were then handed out to the families who visited the Vickery Meadow Food Pantry and were gone within a few days! Thank you to everyone who participated in this very meaningful project, and a special thank you to Wendy Newberger for putting the project together.

The Five Top Reasons for donating to Temple at year’s end

By Hal Levy

Did you know that on average, charities throughout the United States receive 41% of their annual contributions in the last few weeks of the calendar year? This statistic comes from Charity Navigator, an independent on-line charity rating service. They thought that tax benefits, receiving an appeal from a charity, and the altruistic spirit of the holidays would explain the reasons why people are more motivated to give at the end of the year. But it turned out that donors surveyed were motivated by charities with strong financial health, a commitment to accountability and transparency, and evidence of results.

Temple Emanu-El has all these qualities, and offers so much more to its members. And in fact, charitable donations are an excellent way to reduce your tax burden for the year, while doing something for the greater good of the Temple community. In addition to Temple’s financial qualities and results oriented programs, here are December’s top 5 reasons to include Temple in your end-of-year giving plans.

#5 – Temple is an IRS qualified charitable 501(c)3 organization. Charitable donations itemized - if you report itemized deductions on Schedule A on your federal form 1040, your gift to Temple is a charitable deduction.

#4 – It’s easy to donate to Temple: on-line at www.tedallas.org/giving, by mail at 8500 Hillcrest Ave., Dallas TX 75225 or phone the Development Department at 214.706.0000.

#3 – There may be significant changes in tax laws for 2013. And the #1 reason to donate to Temple this month – YOU can do a good deed and make a difference in the lives of Temple members and our community.

#2 – There may be significant changes in tax laws for 2013.

#1 – There may be significant changes in tax laws for 2013.

The Five Top Reasons for donating to Temple at year’s end

A Miracle Gift

The Chanukah story reminds us that even the smallest gift can inspire a miracle. An amount of oil so small that it was thought to last only one night glowed for eight nights in the Temple. The oil inspired not only the Maccabees but generations to follow as we celebrate Chanukah today. Retelling the story of the miracle of the oil reminds us that gifts of all sizes can go beyond their present value to inspire and radiate the future.

A similar gift that makes a big impact and continues to give for generations to follow is a donation to the Temple Emanu-El Endowment. Since the Foundation’s inception in 2000, the initial gifts made during the Endowment Campaign last decade coupled with planned gifts and bequests have built a healthy endowment of approximately $18.5 million as of September 2012 that continues to support our Temple annually.

This past year Temple received a miracle gift of nearly a half million dollars from the Estate of Jerome Tobias, from California. What makes this gift even more remarkable is that Mr. Tobias was not a member at Temple nor has Temple been able to make a direct link with his family or his connection to Dallas. Temple did discover that Mr. Tobias lived in Dallas during his life and he had an affinity for Temple. While the information we know about Mr. Tobias is little, his gift is significant and will illuminate his legacy at Temple through this generous gift to the Endowment.

During this season of giving, please consider a gift to the Temple Emanu-El Endowment, including:

- Planned Giving through a Bequest or a Charitable Trust
- Charitable Gift Annuities & Life Income Trusts
- Life Insurance, IRA or Pension Beneficiary Options
- Create a Jewish Legacy through the Dallas Jewish Community Foundation

We are happy to work with you and your personal financial and legal advisors to select the type of deferred gift best suited to your donor goals. Please contact Hal Levy or Melissa Tone at 214.706.0000, ext. 122.

Please visit the Temple website at www.tedallas.org to see a video message from Rabbi David Stern on the campaign for Our Temple | Our Future. While you are there, you can also see conceptual drawings of the new worship space as well as find the answers to frequently asked questions.
Involvement in Young Adult community just part of making Judaism a constant in life

By Carlie Gotlieb

Similar to my journey of making Judaism a constant, integral part of my life, my involvement with the Young Adults community at Temple has been a wonderful progression since I moved to Dallas from Alabama just over two years ago.

I initially became involved in order to find social justice programs to participate in. Being able to give back was important to me, but it was hard to know where to begin in a new city. I loved attending Fun Saturdays, Mitzvahs and Mimosas, and other activities during my first year here. Eventually, I joined the Young Adults Committee and began taking a role in planning these events.

My involvement in Young Adults quickly grew. I started going to our L’Chaim Learning Series sessions, celebrations for Rosh Hashanah and Purim, and regular opportunities to worship in creative ways and gather for wonderful meals, both at Temple and in other young adult members’ homes.

The most recent step in my journey, though, has been the wonderful relationships I have developed as a result of my involvement. Great friends, new acquaintances, networking opportunities, and an incredible support from both Rabbi Kim and Mimi solidified the fact that this place suddenly feels like home.

The joy and warmth that this community has provided me in the last two years was beyond anything I expected, and I very much want to enhance that effort along with the other members of the committee. Sustaining this community has recently become a significant focus for the Young Adults Committee as we are pleased to announce the opportunity to donate to the Young Adults Fund. We have a strong, focused group that is dedicated to creating meaningful opportunities to learn, worship, and develop relationships among Jewish young adults all over the area. It is a group that I am so fortunate to be a part of.

Ties to Temple deepened by being part of YA community

By Alex Jakubowich

The excitement and uncertainty of moving to a new city, and knowing no one, presented a challenge and opportunity for me that was just too enticing to pass up. Looking back at that initial decision to embark on this journey, I can say that I am also very blessed to call Temple my home.

I moved to Dallas in February 2011 from the Chicago area, and during this same time I began to find myself reconnecting to my family roots and Jewish heritage. My first Friday in town I decided that I’d visit Temple for Shabbat services and reconnect with Cantor Cohn, who prior to arriving at Temple was at the synagogue that I grew up at and Bar Mitzvahed my siblings and me. From that very first evening, I felt the warmth and welcome of this community that was unlike anything that I’d ever known. Several of my very dear friends I met that first night.

Being involved with Young Adults has added immeasurable meaning and beauty to my life, and has further deepened my ties to Temple, Judaism, and our greater community. This is what engaged Judaism can foster and why it’s important to continue to evolve and make Judaism valuable to an often transient and unaffiliated group of Jewish Millennials. As Rabbi Stern skillfully articulated in his Yom Kippur sermon, these young adults demand an answer to “Show me the meaning.”

This is our challenge and opportunity. We have a wonderful congregation with a distinct character. With the varied programming available throughout the region for young Jewish adults, Temple’s Young Adults look forward to being a beacon of just what that meaning can be: the promotion within our community of the knowledge, journey, and sacred encounter that lead to a richly-textured and fulfilling Jewish life.

Hand made booties go to our newest members

Knitter Katherine Bauer says “Every new Temple baby receives hand-knit booties from the Caring Congregation. It is my privilege to knit these booties. I much enjoy doing it. This is such a great welcome to each newest member of our Temple family.” And from Barbara Stone, another knitter: “A small knitting project is very portable entertainment. Repetitious hand motions are calming, and working with soft pretty colors nourishes the soul.

Several years ago, with a revived interest in small knitting projects, I found in the Caring Congregation Bootie Project an outlet for the desire to have busy hands anywhere and also to create something useful. We have a diverse community at Temple, and a very important component of it is our Young Adults. They are the ones who will take us into the future. Here was an opportunity to show them that prior generations welcome and value them and their growing families.

It was the perfect combination – a project in a small kit that I can work on at home, on a road trip or on an airplane, knowing that someone in our community will receive it as a little welcoming gift made by hand.”

Volunteers bring Havdallah to Town Village North

By Susan James

I coordinate and often lead the Havdallah service for Caring Congregation at Town Village North residence for seniors. This ancient ritual of separating Shabbat from the start of the new week has become an intimate part of the residents’ weekly activities. Like our ancestors, we gather as a community for Kiddush, Motzi and blessing over the spices with optimistic hopes for an easy and sweet week to come. We follow singing Eliyahu Hanavi with more from a songbook compiled from residents’ favorite popular secular songs.

Over the last five years I’ve been a volunteer, we have not just been warmly and enthusiastically received by the residents there; we have created real camaraderie, community building and on many levels, feel like family. We have become an intimate part of the residents’ Shabbas experience. Havdallah - the candles, wine, and fragrant spices eases us back into the workweek with spirits lifted and hearts full. If you would like to join us, for this beautiful experience, please get in touch with Peggy Papert at ppapert@tedallas.org.

For the 42nd consecutive year Brotherhood will coordinate the Christmas Mitzvah program. We reach out to the community by volunteering to take the place of Christians in their work place so they may be with their families. This is a service that is greatly appreciated.

This year we will be serving the needs of the following organizations: Family Gateway, Methodist Hospital, Legacy at Preston Hollow, Legacy at Willow Bend and the VA Hospital.

Please join us and volunteer to help out on Christmas Eve and/or Christmas Day! To volunteer, please contact Alan Harris, Brotherhood VP at alanharris100@hotmail.com. Let me know your contact information, how many and which location you would like to serve.

More than mac & cheese – a little chicken, too

Brotherhood Mitzvah Cooking volunteers Bill Simon and Andy Ross (right) display two menu items prepared once a month to help three Dallas charities stretch their budget dollars.

“Camaraderie and serving the community” are what Ross enjoys most about monthly service, benefits widely shared by other volunteers who roll up their sleeves for Brotherhood kitchen duty.

Stuart Leviton talks about creating engagement in today’s MRJ

By Joel Batalsky

Stuart Leviton, First Vice President of the Men of Reform Judaism (MRJ) and incoming President of MRJ, spoke to the Temple Brotherhood during the general membership meeting October 4.

Leviton is the son of Elise Leviton, long-time member of Temple Emanuel. He focused on how to engage men in our Brotherhood programs. Some of the questions that he asked and discussed with the group were as follows:

1. How do we engage men in our programs?
2. How do we in the Brotherhood keep doing good work but expand the scope of the programs that we offer?
3. How do we give men a reason to join Brotherhood?
4. How do we make better men and better Jews?

Some suggested answers to these questions were discussed. Another concept discussed was that traditionally Brotherhood was a vehicle to raise funds for the Temple. Now that most Temples have their own development committee, Brotherhood should use their funds to make better men and better Jews.

Joel Batalsky, a member of the Temple Brotherhood, thanked Mr. Leviton on the outstanding website that MRJ has published on the internet. (www.menrj.org). This website has been re-designed, its pages updated, and new features added. Although this website was not discussed in detail this is a great time to mention some of the great new features:

• Weekly Parsha from a Men’s Perspective
• Updates on MRJ’s National Programs
• Leadership handbooks, FAQ’s and Best Practices
• MRJ’s Men’s Storytelling Project-on-Line
• Subscribe to MRJ’s listserve
• Participate in a Discussion Forum or Networking Group
• Links & RSS feeds from other sites of the Reform Movement
• New MRJ Donation Page
• MRJ Marketplace
• Achim-on-Line: their new ezine will continue in the tradition of its print edition, and include article of interest to contemporary Jewish men.

It is hoped that members of the Temple Brotherhood as well as other members will share this link (www.menrj.org) using your Facebook and Twitter pages and participate in this MRJ’s most exciting new venture!

Harry Kabler honored by Greater Dallas Veterans Council

Harry Kabler, a long time active member of the Temple Brotherhood, was recently honored by the Greater Dallas Veterans Council at the Veterans Hospital in Dallas for his work in the community. As most of you know, Harry is responsible as a member of the Brotherhood for both the usher program at the High Holidays as well as the giving of blood at the Temple twice a year.

Dates to Remember

December 2 - Brotherhood Mitzvah Cooking
December 5 - Brotherhood Monthly Meeting & Dinner
Do you know what happens if you don’t join Brotherhood in 2013?
You don’t get to write off your $60 donation.

It’s not too late to reduce your taxes, and put the money to a better use…
Brotherhood Membership!

We want you to participate. If you can’t, we hope that you will help us to help others with your membership dues. It’s simple to join. Fill out the form on the back of this page and return it with your check. Take your IRS deduction before the end of the year!

And, thank you for doing so! (I bet you won’t hear “thank you” from the IRS!)

So, a Gentle Reminder… and our Last Request of the Year

Please join one of Temple Emanu-El's most active arms, our Brotherhood.

We are part of Men of Reform Judaism whose main interest is to stimulate fellowship, interest in Jewish worship and studies, tikkun olam, and service to the congregation, the Jewish community and the community at large. MRJ supports Brotherhoods all over North America as well as the Jewish Chautauqua Society. JCS is the interfaith education program that provides knowledge and education about Jews and Judaism to peoples of all faiths and cultures.

Our Brotherhood is one of the largest in MRJ having three members on the Board of Directors. One serves on the Executive Committee and another as an Officer.

Brotherhood supports our Temple and our community. Nearly 50 men of our congregation serve our Board, leading and accomplishing programs and events that make your experience at Temple Emanu-El more meaningful. We fund many programs oriented toward our youth, plus we consider all requests for support, whether financial or for manpower.

Please join us in our commitment for a better Temple. Fill out the form on the back of this letter and mail it along with your check. Also, please consider both a membership in JCS and making an additional donation to Brotherhood.

We appreciate your consideration.
