From the study of Rabbi Kimberly Herzog Cohen

Tied in a Single Garment of Destiny

Last year, as the trees were beginning to blossom again and preparations for Passover were well underway, I visited Paul Quinn College for the first time. Originally founded in Austin in 1872 by the African Methodist Episcopal (AME) Church, Paul Quinn College moved to Dallas in 1990. The college is one of the top Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), currently led by its visionary president, Michael Sorrell. Paul Quinn College remains committed to its faith-based roots, as evidenced in one of the statements of the Quinnite Creed: As a Quinnite, I believe in the words of Isaiah 58:9-12 and commit to feeding the hungry, taking care of the needs of the troubled and rebuilding old cities, roads and houses.

As part of a lecture series on the rich tapestry of religions and cultures in Dallas, I was honored to speak to the student body about the evolving relationship between the Black and Jewish community in America. During my talk, I compared two quotes, both conveying the message of our duty to uphold justice and freedom for all people. The first is from the Talmud: “Whoever is able to protest against the transgressions of his own family and does not do so is held responsible for the sins of his family. Whoever is able to protest against the transgressions of the people of his community and does not do so is held responsible for the sins of his community. Whoever is able to protest against the transgressions of the entire world and does not do so is held responsible for the sins of the entire world (Shabbat 59b).”

And the second, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. wrote from a Birmingham jail in 1963: “I am cognizant of the interrelatedness of all communities and states. I cannot sit idly by in Atlanta and not be concerned about what happens in Birmingham. Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere. We are caught in an inescapable network of mutuality, tied in a single garment of destiny.”

The ancient Talmudic charge—that we are responsible for the actions of our family, community and greater world—is mirrored in the words of MLK, Baptist preacher and civil rights leader. Although we are two religious traditions, both distinct, we are joined by a conviction that pursuing justice is a sacred obligation. As Jews, we recommit ourselves to this obligation through the stories of our ancestors, through gathering as a Shabbat community, and most especially, when we join together on the holiday of Passover.

When I concluded my lecture, a Paul Quinn student, who I later learned was named Francis, raised her hand. “So when are we going to have a joint seder, with Paul Quinn students and Temple members?” she asked. From this question emerged an idea, which we have nurtured through joint programming and ongoing conversations. A year after Francis first posed her question, on March 21, Temple Emanu-El young adults and Paul Quinn College staff and students will gather together for a Passover seder, reading a co-created original haggadah.

We are tied in a single garment of destiny. And yet, sometimes that which binds us can become frayed by fear, by greed, and by indifference. Relations between Blacks and Jews are no exception, as we remember moments standing side by side as brothers and sisters, and moments of violence amidst the chaos of riots. Our past can serve as an inspiration or cautionary reminder. But as we stand in the present, let us meet and shape reality in this season of redemption. How we choose to act will determine the weaving of stronger ties for a better future.

Roots and Branches: Reform Judaism Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

We live in a rapidly changing society and a rapidly changing Jewish world. In this three-part sermon series, Rabbi Stern will address questions like: What are the roots and historic contributions of Classical Reform Judaism that can help us respond to the challenges and opportunities of our own day? How can the historic dynamics of our movement help us understand Reform Judaism in 2013? Does contemporary Reform Judaism still have a distinctive identity? What has changed and what remains constant? As American Jews become increasingly diverse and entrepreneurial in practice, do denominations still matter at all? Join us for these services and sermons to grapple with core questions and to celebrate the legacy and potential of twenty-first century Reform Judaism.

Part I (December 21) and Part II (January 18) are available on our website at http://www.tedallas.org/sermons.

Torah Honors

If you would like to participate in the Shabbat Morning Service in Lefkowitz Chapel by dressing and undressing the Torah, carrying the Torah, or leading the Torah blessings, members of our new Gabbai Team can help you make the arrangements. This is a wonderful way to mark a personal milestone in your life, feel connected to your community and celebrate the richness of our tradition on Shabbat. No experience is necessary but a training session will take place on March 2 following Shabbat morning services and before the Shabbat Nosh if you’d like to practice. Contact our Gabbai Team at gabbaiteam@tedallas.org or by leaving a message at 214.706.0017.

Sermons On-Line!

We are now posting audio files on the website of the Friday night Shabbat sermons. You can hear a new sermon most Mondays (and 2 on the weeks when we have a 6:15 and an 8:15 service) at http://www.tedallas.org/prayer/sermons.

If you missed Parts I and II of Rabbi Stern’s sermon series, you can listen to it on our website at www.tedallas.org/prayers/sermons.

A Mosaic of Celebration

March 8 Shabbat Service celebrates Choir’s 60th Anniversary, features new edition of The Union Prayer Book, conclusion of Roots and Branches sermon series

Our 6:15 p.m. Shabbat Service on Friday March 8 will be a mosaic of celebration! As our annual Choir Appreciation Shabbat, this service will feature the music, talent and soul of our wonderful Temple Emanu-El Choir this year celebrating its 60th anniversary. For our liturgy, we will be using The Union Prayer Book, Sinai Edition, a recently revised version of the Union Prayer Book which has been a treasured part of Sabbath observance for many of our congregants for generations. Thanks to a generous gift from the Edward and Wilhelmina Ackerman Family, our congregation now possesses a number of these beautiful Shabbat prayer books, and this service will mark our first opportunity to experience the book in worship, and to learn from congregant feedback about potential future use at Union Prayer Book services throughout the year. In addition, this Shabbat will also mark the conclusion of Rabbi Stern’s sermon series Roots and Branches, on the great history and shining promise of Reform Judaism in the ongoing development of Jewish life. We hope you’ll be part of our worship community for this wonderful service of music, learning, and the profound beauty of poetic prayer.

The biblical prophets who chided our ancestors to live lives of faith and action, to demonstrate their beliefs by caring for others and our world, still speak to us today. The Haftarah portions selected to accompany the Shabbat Torah portions are regular opportunities to learn about these moral and ethical values and integrate them even more deeply into our modern lives. Our Lefkowitz Chapel Shabbat Morning Service (at 10:30 on Saturdays) includes a selection from these prophetic books each week. Lay volunteers chant the traditional blessings in Hebrew and read the portion in English. If you would like to participate in this ritual, please contact Frost Gardner at sheilaandfrostysty@tx.rr.com or 972.385.7680 for a date and join this warm worship community to celebrate Shabbat.

March 26, 10:30 a.m. Passover Morning Festival Services, Lefkowitz Chapel
April 1, 10:30 a.m. Passover Concluding Service with Yizkor, Lefkowitz Chapel

Yizkor: Public prayer honoring loved ones

Passover is one of only four holidays each year that includes a Yizkor memorial service. The other three are Yom Kippur, Sukkot and Shavuot. The service always falls on the final day of the holiday. Temple’s Passover Yizkor service will be at 10:30 a.m., April 1 in Lefkowitz Chapel.

Yizkor (meaning “remember”) is dedicated to the memory of the dead – particularly of our mothers and fathers, siblings, and most intimate friends and family. The service is a public appeal to God to remember and always treasure those who have passed. It also reminds the living that their good deeds and actions on earth strengthen the merit and legacy of those who came before them. The service creates an unbroken circle between the living and the dead – those whose memories we covet – and forms a bond between Jewish souls for all time.

“May God remember the soul of . . . who has gone to eternity. May his/her soul be bound up in the bond of life with the souls of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Sarah, Rebecca, Rachel, and Leah, and with those of all the righteous in the Garden of Eden.”

- A prayer during Yizkor

Mitzvot: Passover offers many opportunities

The observance of Passover includes opportunities to do many mitzvot. Some are biblically commanded and others have grown out of our long tradition. They include:

- Preparing the house and removing all the chametz (leaven food not suitable for Passover). “On the very first day you shall remove leaven from your house.” -- Exodus 12:15.
- Preparing the seder and reading the Exodus story in the Haggadah.
- Abstaining from eating any leaven, reminding us daily of the difficult times our ancestors suffered in the desert and of the urgency with which they departed Egypt.
- Inviting guests to the seder and helping others enjoy the holiday by providing tzedakah to the poor. “Let all who are hungry to come and eat, let all who are in want share the hope of Passover.” -- The Haggadah
- Reciting Yizkor during a memorial service on the final day of Passover.
- Studying one chapter per week of the Pirke Avot (Ethics of our Ancestors from the Talmud) during the seven weeks of the Omer to help ready ourselves for Shavuot and the receipt, once again, of the Torah.

Passover appeal helps those who are hungry and in need

As Passover approaches, it is traditional for Jews around the world to reach out to those who are hungry, less fortunate, and in need.

Once again, we would like to facilitate your mitzvah of giving tzedakah at this season of our festival of dignity and freedom, and we are asking for your support. If you make a contribution to Temple Emanu-El and write on the check “Project 255,” your donation will support our dynamic hunger partnerships with Vickery Meadow Food Pantry, Jewish Family Services, North Texas Food Bank, North Dallas Shared Ministries, MAZON: A Jewish Response to Hunger and other hunger relief organizations at Passover time.

We read together at the Seder table, “Let all who are hungry come and eat! Let all who are in need share in the Passover!” May we renew our commitment to help all who are hungry here and around the world so that next year we all may be free.

Second Night Congregational Passover Seder

Tuesday, March 26, 5:30 p.m., Tobian Auditorium
Rabbis Asher Knight and Adam Allenberg will lead a Seder rich with story and song. The evening will include a full-course Seder meal with lots of Passover favorites! Attendees are welcome to bring a favorite bottle of wine to enjoy. (Ritual wine provided.) Special activities will be planned for children! Child care will be available by RSVP only for children 3 months to 4 years.
Cost is $18 for children (ages 3 to 10) and $40 for adults.
Financial assistance is available – please call for more information.
Advanced reservations are required. Please register no later than Friday, March 8. Space is limited and will fill quickly. To register, visit www.tedallas.org/prayer/passover or call Carolyne Ojwang at 214.706.0000 ext. 131 for more information.

Pesach and Spring are a time for growth

Help us help our neighbors grow more. Temple Emanu-El supports a community garden for the residents of Vickery Meadow, located across the street from Jill Stone Elementary. There are 40 garden beds that have been adopted by the neighborhood residents, the majority of which are refugee families with agricultural roots from around the world.

At the seder, bins will be available so that we can collect gardening tools and seeds. Your contributions will be greatly appreciated.

Find or give a place at the table through E+2
If you are willing to host, or if you would appreciate being a guest at a home seder, just fill out the “E+2 Matching Form” which can be found online at www.tedallas.org/prayer/passover/E-Plus2 or contact Susan Dunn at sdunn@tedallas.org or 214.706.0000. Please submit your E+2 Matching Form (found on Page 7) by March 11. The E+2 Committee will make every effort to accommodate your request.

Theodore Bikel in Concert at Temple Emanu-El, May 7

What are you doing on Tuesday night, May 7? How about spending it up-close-and-personal with a world-renowned actor, singer, political activist and author? You can do just that by joining us in the Olan Sanctuary for “An Evening with Theodore Bikel.”

A treasure of the Broadway stage, Mr. Bikel originated the role of Baron von Trapp in Rodgers and Hammerstein’s “The Sound of Music,” and he performed the role of Teyve in “Fiddler on the Roof” more than any other actor in history. Mr. Bikel was born in Vienna, and he resided in Israel and London before coming to our country, where he lives today. An international star of theater, film, television and radio, a political activist, Jewish spokesman, author and folk singer, Mr. Bikel is perhaps too modest when he says of his life, “Professionally, I can count three or four separate existences.”

Keep your calendar open on May 7, and watch for upcoming announcements about ticket sales for “An Evening with Theodore Bikel,” a very special event of the Pollman Performing Arts Programs.

On Rosh Hashanah this year, Rabbi David Stern spoke about the responsibilities we have as a community to one another, and the challenges that we face when we are in relationship with others. He taught, “Within politics or our own families, it requires both humility and responsibility to open up our vision of the other. We suffer from what Marilynne Robinson calls “a dearth of … imagination for the integrity … of other lives.” Am I willing to be curious about the position of someone whose perspective is different than mine? Am I willing not to tuck them into some conveniently pre-judged cubbyhole? Am I willing to hear challenges to my own thinking?”

The Henry D. Schlinger Ethics Symposium honors the memory of a past president of this congregation whose life was guided by ethical principles. In his memory, and for the sake of our future, we commit one evening per year to explore the wisdom inherent in contrasting ideas.

This year Rabbi Stern will moderate a panel entitled Marriage and the Changing Face of the Modern Family. We are honored to welcome to this year’s panel Drs. Ron Garber and Brad Braxton. Dr. Garber is a psychologist and marriage and family therapist in independent practice here in Dallas. His area of specialty includes working with survivors of trauma and abuse, as well as families impacted by HIV and alternative lifestyles. Dr. Braxton is the Lois Craddock Perkins Professor of Homiletics at Southern Methodist University’s Perkins School of Theology. In addition to his professorial duties, Dr. Braxton is also the founding Senior Pastor of The Open Church, a cross-cultural, radically inclusive congregation in Baltimore, Maryland. He is a former Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University and is the author of three books.

Please join us at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 19 for this engaging conversation about the role of marriage in society, its legal and religious boundaries and the changing face of the family.

NCJW Centennial display in Archives

Opening in March in the Dorothy M. and Henry S. Jacobus Archives, the NCJW Centennial Exhibit will feature the rich history of NCJW’s unique response to the needs of women, children and families in the Dallas Community. From volunteering at Parkland, instituting school lunches, providing free milk, working for literacy instruction, advocating for minors in the courts, and supporting Planned Parenthood, the Council was there.
Cantor Richard Cohn’s series explores Jewish Mystical Texts and Spiritual Practice

March 2, 9 a.m.

Join Cantor Richard Cohn for a series based on texts selected from Daniel Matt’s "The Essential Kabbalah," complemented by an introduction to Jewish spiritual practices. The group will gather on Saturday mornings, from 9:00 to 10:15 a.m. on March 2 and 9 in the Weiss Youth Wing.

Jewish mystical texts represent a significant body of thought and creativity, applied to the most fundamental concerns of our lives. They address our understanding of the Divine presence in Creation and our relationship to that presence.

They offer responses to difficult spiritual questions, while illuminating pathways of Jewish practice that can influence our real choices from moment to moment.

Each session will be centered around a focal text, encompassed within a learning environment that includes sacred chant, elements of prayer and meditation, aspects of mussar (cultivation of character traits) and attention to opportunities for Jewish observance.

If you have any questions about the class, please contact Rabbi Adam M. Allenberg at aallenberg@tedallas.org.

Our Temple | Our Future is moving closer to reality

Both the campaign and construction committees are hard at work. Architect Gary Cunningham and his team have studied every inch of our current campus and continue to bring both a magnificent creative vision and a deep honoring of Temple’s great historical and architectural legacy. They have engaged theater consultants to help design chapel seating that will enhance the worship experience while also offering flexibility for life cycle events and regular services. They also have identified acoustics specialists who will not only enhance the power of the new prayer space, but also bring great improvement to the sound in the cherished iconic spaces of the Olan Sanctuary and the Lefkowitz Chapel.

Meanwhile, the board has engaged Pritchard Associates as our owner’s representative. In that role, Pritchard will help oversee construction, find cost savings and assist us in planning and managing this multi-dimensional endeavor.

The board also has approved the hiring of The Beck Group, one of the city’s premier contractors, and our design and construction committee is working with them on pre-planning. Shelley Sender in the Early Childhood Education Center and Rabbis Adam Allenberg and Amy Ross in the Religious School have begun envisioning how our new education spaces will enrich learning at Temple, including the technology that will place a world of Jewish learning and living at our kids’ fingertips.

To date, nearly $12 million has been raised, putting us more than a third of the way toward our $32 million goal. Rabbi Stern reports that “each conversation I have with a donor or potential donor brings excitement about the updated plans, and the response has been record-breaking.” The donations include the first $1 million capital gifts in Temple’s history – seven of them so far.

When we break ground will depend on the rate of pledges. Construction is expected to take 18 to 24 months.

Join us for Temple Emanu-El’s 141st Annual Meeting on March 27

Wednesday, March 27,
Linz Hall, 7:30 pm

Come hear the latest on Our Temple | Our Future, including building design plans and progress of the Capital Campaign, and meet and vote on the new slate of Temple officers and trustees.

Please make plans to attend Temple’s 141st Annual Meeting on Wednesday, March 27. All members are invited and encouraged to attend.

Temple will be electing a new president and slate of officers and members of the Board of Trustees. Your participation in the governance of our wonderful Congregation is vitally important. It is also an opportunity to hear from Temple leadership on the state of Temple, learn about the accomplishments that have been achieved, current programs and plans for the future. Temple’s By-laws require a quorum of 50 households of the Congregation to vote on the leadership or other agenda matters. We would like to have hundreds of our congregants attend.

Please join us beginning at 7:00 pm in Linz Hall for light refreshments and schmoozing with fellow congregants. The Annual Meeting will commence at 7:30 pm, and will include the presentation of officer reports and nominees plus a question-and-answer session. We also expect to present to the congregation minor amendments to Temple’s By-Laws, which will require a vote by the congregation at the Annual Meeting.

Members of the Temple Emanu-El Nominating Committee for 2013-2014 consisted of Mark Kleinman, Chair; Phyllis Bernstein, Helen Frank, Beth Gold, Renee Karp, Adam Lampert, Jim Parrish, Brad Sham and Alan Shor. Temple President, Robin Kosberg, and First Vice President, Scott McCartney, served ex-officio. The nominated slate of Officers and Members of the Board of Trustees is included in this Window on Page 13.

Travel to Israel in December with Rabbis David Stern and Nancy Kasten

Have you been waiting for the next opportunity to experience Israel with your congregational family? Your wait may soon be over if you’re available this December. Learn with Rabbi David Stern and Rabbi Nancy Kasten, as we travel and share incredible experiences together! We will have an Information Session on March 31, 12:15 p.m. in Linz Hall.

This journey to Israel will take us to places not typical of first-time visitors, making this a great travel opportunity for first-time and return participants of all ages. We will travel south, visiting kibbutzim, exploring the outstanding environmental projects being carried out in the Arava Desert and seeing what is being done in Reform congregations throughout Israel; we will experience time at Ramon Crater and Timna, participate in a real archaeological dig, and see some of the typical Israeli highlights like Yad VaShem, Masada, and sites in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

We will have options for various side-trips so this itinerary is ideal for first-timers and returnees – all ages are encouraged to join us!

If you have any questions or want to register for this experience with other Temple members, please contact Karen Hoffman, khoffman@tedallas.org or 214.706.0000, ext. 159.

Imagine a day when all of our 2,500 Temple Emanu-El families are called just to say

“Hello – How are you?”

On April 28, (9:30 a.m. – 4 p.m.) volunteers will be calling you!

Understand the amazing impact a day like this has by becoming a volunteer at

Temple’s 3rd Connect-a-Thon

contact Debbie Fuqua at 214.706.0000 ext. 128 or dfuqua@tedallas.org

What people said about the 2nd Connect-A-Thon...

“Thank you for calling. I always want to get more involved but don’t know how to do it”

“I love the way Temple reaches out to the community and its congregants!”

“The honesty and emotion expressed by congregants was very moving.”

Keeping Temple a safe and secure place an ongoing effort

Security has been and continues to be of utmost importance here at Temple. While we strive to be an open and welcoming community we are aware of the need to provide the best possible security for the children, congregants, staff, and visitors who use our building.

We work hard to find the right balance of protection and openness. We don’t want to live in a constant state of fear of what might happen, but we also want to take all reasonable precautions to prevent an incident from occurring here at Temple. Over the last several years we have had multiple task forces look at our security and make recommendations, most of which have been implemented. Some of the security measures in place here at Temple are:

- Security guard on site all hours that the Early Childhood Education Center is open
- Security guard on site during Saturday worship services and receptions
- Off duty police on site during Friday evening services
- Off duty police on site Sunday mornings during Religious School
- Badge access system restricting entry to most of the building to only those with the appropriate badge
- Entrances locked, depending on day of week and time of day
- Cameras with digital recording located at all entrances to the building
- Panic buttons at strategic locations
- Interior hall doors secured to limit access to the ECEC
- Two way intercom installed in all classrooms
- Emergency text system in place to communicate with parents

In the coming weeks and months we will again be reviewing our security and looking at ways to upgrade and improve our security, but the most important thing we can all do is be vigilant and watchful. If something or someone does not look right tell the security guard, police officer, facility manager, or executive director.

When coming into the building do not hold the door open for the next person unless they are personally known to you. This is not being rude, it is being safe. If that person following you belongs in the building then they will have the badge or code needed to enter the building.

With your help we can keep Temple a safe and secure place for all of us.
By Shelly Sender
Early Childhood Education Director

I had the good fortune of joining over 400 early childhood educators from Jewish congregations across the United States, January 16-19, in Morristown, New Jersey for the thirteenth annual Early Childhood Educators of Reform Judaism (ECE-RJ) conference. This year’s conference theme was Revolutions in Early Childhood: Technology, Testing, Teaching, and Torah.

This dynamic conference offered a unique opportunity for Directors, Assistant Directors, Teachers, Lay Leaders and Specialists to renew our own commitment to both secular and Jewish learning while focusing on expanding our knowledge and faith with a passion we aspire to instill in our children and their families.

The four-day conference was filled with workshops, networking and creative worship, bringing together those who are active in congregational early childhood education. A highlight of the conference was an address by Rabbi Rick Jacobs, President of the Union for Reform Judaism. He underscored the Reform Movement’s commitment to ongoing support and development of early childhood education. The conference began Wednesday night with a special workshop and acoustic performance by Children’s Music Performer Mama Doni. The following day, Rabbi Daniel Cohen, Senior Rabbi at Temple Sharey Tefilo-Israel of South Orange, NJ, set the tone with his insightful keynote address about his innovative techniques of incorporating various technologies into the education and worship experiences of his temple community. In addition, we participated in several workshops, each focusing on innovative program ideas I look forward to sharing with the staff and families here at Temple Emanu-El ECEC.

On route back to Dallas, with a slight detour, Heidi and I were privileged to be invited to three schools in Orlando where we did a six hour workshop for their educators on a natural approach to teaching and documenting. As educators, we are in the field of learning. One of the most important missions I have as an educator is to share knowledge, not only with our students, but with other educators, to inspire them to be continuous learners too. The opportunity to share our vision and ignite even just a small spark amongst other educators is part of our responsibility to the children as their leaders.

Last year this time, we were in the process of planning for our chicken hutch, which was made possible by our incredible Parent’s Association. The chicken program is well underway and we are the very lucky recipients of fresh eggs each and every day. We have used the eggs in multiple ways, such as cooking with them in the Culinary Arts program, selling them in our farmers market which in turn benefits the plot in the community garden, and the children have even donated them to sisterhood for their weekly Oneg. How amazing for the children to actually see where eggs come from!

This year, we are once again charged and excited for yet another innovative project, the transformation of the large traditional playground into an exploratory natural playscape. Please stop by and see the plan that is located in the foyer of the school, and you can take a quick peek at the construction. This is all so exciting, and once again funded by our extraordinary Parent’s Association. We are so thankful for everything that they do.

We spent a wonderful day together with friends and family at our annual Grandfriend’s day event that took place in February. These defining moments leave such lasting impressions. Thank you to all of you who attended and helped to make this day so special!

B’shalom

Youth/Education

Technology, natural learning and play all important at ECEC

By Joanne Yurich

Time with family is precious, and so is religious education. ALEF, a new experiential learning program for families with students in Kindergarten through 2nd grade, combines the best of both in a brand new way.

ALEF is an innovative alternative to our traditional Religious School Program for parents who want to experience what their kids see, hear and do while learning about our faith. Instead of dropping students off and hearing about class afterward, moms and dads participate, too. ALEF also allows Temple families to interact with other families regularly and in a more intimate environment.

The program launched this year and 21 Temple families are already seeing the benefits. Charlotte and Josh Kahn have four children. Their interfaith clan is committed to raising the children Jewish and is involved in many aspects of Temple life. Their decision to join ALEF with Kendell, their kindergartner, was an easy one.

“My husband was raised at Temple Emanu-El when many parents simply dropped their kids at the door on Sundays,” says Charlotte. “But, since we began bringing our own children here, we’ve wanted to participate in their education. ALEF is a logical extension of our family’s values.”

When asked about a memorable ALEF day, Charlotte recalls a Shabbat celebration.

“Each family brought a kiddish cup and explained why the cup was important to them. Kids made wine from grapes, and the sharing of family intimacy with one another was quite special,” says Charlotte.

ALEF meets one Friday, one Saturday and one Sunday a month, including some holidays. Fridays are centered on Shabbat and Saturdays blend Shabbat and parent/student learning. On Sundays, ALEF participants work on a social justice project, which could include visiting or volunteering with community organizations. With this alternative to the Sunday morning Religious School Program, families can choose the format that fits their lifestyle.

Celebrate WRJ’s Centennial Shabbat March 2

WRJ/Sisterhood will hold its Centennial Sabbath, marking the 100th anniversary of WRJ nationally. A special sermon by Rabbi Debra Robbins will be part of the service beginning at 10:30 a.m. in Lefkowitz Chapel. Esteemed members of our Sisterhood will be honored on the bimah. The Temple Membership Dept. and WRJ combine talents to provide a Kiddush meal that includes “Desserts Across the Decades,” which will be served in Linz Hall after the service. We invite WRJ/Sisterhood members to come celebrate with us as well as other members of our congregation. For further information on this special day for WRJ, call either: Jo-Sandra Greenberg, 972.814.0777, or Linda Steinberg at 214.616.8125.

Centennial Luncheon will honor ‘Unsung Hero’ Celia Saunders

Wednesday, March 20, 11:30-1:30 p.m. in Tobian Auditorium

She’s always there and always helping! Please plan to join us to show our appreciation for a hard-working ball of energy who lights up a room without being in the spotlight, a truly special unsung WRJ hero. This event replaces the Hall of Fame for 2013, and WRJ Chai Angel members can attend at no cost. For everyone else the price is $18 for a delightful luncheon. Make your payment to Temple Emanu-El WRJ by March 12. See the Invitation/RSVP form on page 20 of the Window. Questions? Contact Sharon Willey, sharonwille@verizon.net.

WRJ/Sisterhood Lunch Meeting and 2013-14 Board Slate Presented

Monday, March 18, 11:30-1 p.m. in Linz Hall

We welcome our WRJ/Sisterhood members or Temple Emanu-El women who would like to find out why over 425 women have already joined or rejoined this year! If you haven’t been to a meeting yet or for a while, we’d love to welcome you. RSVP to Minnette Klein, 214.360.9333 or gkmk2@aol.com, so we have a count for the meal.

Celia Ann Rose Saunders
Wednesday, March 20, 2013
Luncheon: 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.
Tobian Auditorium

Celia Rose Saunders grew up at Temple Emanu-El, the daughter of Minnette Klein and the late Alvin Rose, and has been helping with anything having to do with WRJ since she was first drafted to be her mom's helper. Over the years, Celia has continued to be a constant source of support for WRJ projects and will be leading this organization as its president beginning in April 2013. So much of the volunteering she does for WRJ and Temple is behind the scenes, but that doesn't lessen the importance of the countless hours given without regard for accolades or public thanks. From preparing food for onegs and holiday celebrations to chairing events to taking photos to greeting everyone she sees with a huge smile and a warm welcome, she is a vital part of what WRJ brings to Temple Emanu-El. Celia joins a long line of accomplished women honored for volunteering their time and talents for the past 100 years.

March 6- Brotherhood Monthly Meeting, Wine Tasting & Dinner

March 10 – Brotherhood Mitzvah Cooking

Ito Perl gives the D'Var Torah at the January Brotherhood monthly meeting

This week’s parsha deals with Moses and his negotiations with Pharaoh. I found it interesting that even in biblical times, leaders who failed to negotiate had problems. In this case it was Pharaoh who was arrogant and unable to see the needs of his people, while Moses viewed himself as a low level employee who worked for God. One leader places himself and his needs before everyone, the other places the needs of the community above all else.

I asked whether anyone saw a parallel to today’s leaders and their negotiating styles.

Mitzvah Cooking Program prepares meals for Dallas area community programs

The first Sunday of every month, a group of 10-12 volunteers mainly from the Temple Brotherhood prepare approximately 3,000 meals for the following community programs in Dallas, Texas:

• Bryan’s House which is a special-care facility in Dallas for children impacted by HIV or AIDS, and children with special health needs, and their families.
• Jonathan’s Place is a “home-style” emergency shelter for abused, abandoned and neglected children, Foster & Adoptive Family Program, and a Girls’ Treatment program.
• Community Homes for Adults, Inc. (CHAI House) provides group homes for people with cognitive difficulties to lead fulfilling, meaningful and productive lives.

According to Rabbi Jack Segal in his great book, “Focus on the bagel, not on the hole,” “To a Jew, deed is more important than creed. Belief may be important, but not as important as one’s actions. To a Jew, action speaks louder than words.” Brotherhood’s Mitzvah monthly cooking program is about action!

For more information or to volunteer for Mitzvah cooking, please contact Stephen Shore at sshore@tebrotherhood.org. The time commitment is approximately 3 hours.

Christmas Mitzvah program gives workers at three residences, hospital a holiday

This year the Brotherhood Christmas Mitzvah program successfully completed its 42nd year. We relieved Christian workers at senior residences and hospitals so that they could be home with their families on Christmas. Just as important we participated in social activities with the residents or patients to help brighten their and our day.

About 75 volunteers came out to support the following agencies on Christmas day: The Legacy at Preston Hollow, The Legacy at Willow Bend, Methodist Hospital and The Residences of Manchester Place.

Activities included making friends with the residents and patients, visiting and delivering ice and water, playing word games and Bingo, and helping serve food and snacks, and information desk coverage.

We are very proud of our very enthusiastic group of volunteers and dedicated staff who gave a portion of their day in bad weather to give others comfort and companionship.
