Grief, Healing, Hope	37

We have arrived at Yizkor,

this intimate hour of presence with the ones we have lost.

No matter how recently or long ago they left our sides,
we take these moments to continue the conversations,
to build an enduring legacy from generation to generation.

In this community of mourners, we find comfort in one another,
as together we pray for our sorrows to ease into memory,
for our grief to blossom into new understanding, for healing
when our own pain and that of the world seem overwhelming.

May the memories of all who have died bring blessing to those who loved them, to our community,
to the Jewish people and to the world.

Reflections

We honor Rabbi David Stern's final year as senior rabbi of Temple Emanu-El with a selection of his Yizkor writings on loss, memory, grief and love.

YOM KIPPUR, 2006

We stand with them again this day. And from the base of memory's mountain we carry a stone. We place it at their graves, or we place it as a guidepost on our paths, or we just hold it close. Sometimes it is inscribed, like those world-changing tablets from Sinai. And sometimes it is smooth as a river rock—polished with time and tears and love. But we know for certain—it is a privilege to carry. And on this Yizkor and Yom Kippur day—it is a blessing to stand with them again.

"SOMETHING TO TOUCH," 2011

Three months ago, like many of you who have done the same, I helped clear out my late father's apartment. I was dreading it—but my brother and sister, who started the work, reported that it was not too terrible. And when Nancy and I arrived to do our share, we found it surprisingly comforting.

We want something to touch—because the sensory link to something present can bring comfort in the face of wrenching absence. We want something to touch—not because a memento replaces a person, but because those mundane tangible objects remind us of the enduring, transcendent spark of who they were.

All those clothes in my father's apartment weren't just clothes—they were a reminder of his insistence on the dignity of his appearance, in every season of the year, and every season of his body's decline.

The stain on the carpet was a reminder of how he called every cup of coffee the best cup he had ever had, of how his solution to weariness was a 2PM visit to Starbucks rather than a 2PM nap. It was a reminder of how he spilled things, of how he loved to laugh, and how we loved to laugh with him. It was a wonderful stain.

In the end, it's not about hanging onto things. Death's first lesson to us, no matter how stubbornly or understandably we resist learning it, is that there is no holding on to what is most precious. The people we love die. But Yizkor this day reminds us that their names remain lit from within—their spirits still shine.

Reflections

“PRESENCE,” 2014

So yes, Yizkor is about the ache of absence; and yes, Yizkor is about the stubborn grace of presence, about whispers of spirit, about relationships that endure, even now; and love that endures, even now; and the hope for healing that endures, even and especially now—because sometimes their presence then was painful to us—and sometimes their presence now is a tender and softening gift.

“MEMORY,” 2015

Why is the malleability of memory on Yom Kippur such a gift? Because it allows us to forget some things. Because alongside our sobering self-reckoning, it permits us to focus on the goodness of those we have loved and lost, on the goodness of those with whom we still walk the path of life—even on the goodness in ourselves. Neither they nor we are perfect. Flawed, good, selfish, generous, maddening, steadfast—thank God we can’t remember everything. Perfect remembering is the stuff of God—the God of whom we beseech at Yizkor to remember the souls of our loved ones. Maybe only God can see the true fullness of a human soul—we mortals are accorded only glimmers and glimpses, even of those we know and love best, even of ourselves.

And so we will say Yizkor Elohim—May God remember—as only God can. And may we remember as we can—with memory that is blessedly imperfect.

“THE WIND TELEPHONE,” 2017

Here at Yizkor, we know the feeling: the impulse to keep connecting, the conversations we continue to have. It happens all the time. A few years ago, at Kever Avot, I approached a member of our congregation who had lost her husband to ask how she was doing. She said, “O.K. I just had a good talk with him. I had a lot to report.” This is not about seances or some elaborate vision of a spirit realm; it is about the fact that our hearts and memories are big enough to span this world and whatever is next. To assume that we talk only to the living is a rather narrow view of conversation.

On Yizkor, we are all believing physicists, as the distinction between past, present and future melts away. They were here. They are gone. And in ways that touch and break and nourish our hearts, they are with us still.

We are perched on a hill overlooking the new year, and there is something on the breeze. Call it memory. Call it blessing. Call it love. Call it life.

Reflections

YOM KIPPUR, 2018

We are here at Yizkor to talk while we cry. To let the tears flow because it is good and healing and safe here—and to find the words, perhaps quietly in our hearts now, and aloud at the break-fast later, not only to name what we feel, but to tell of who they were, make them solid again in our remembering.

And perhaps autumn remembering puts another challenge to us. If in winter's rage our focus is on what has been taken from us, the autumn season of memory asks a different question—what have we been given? Not just what have we lost, but what have they bequeathed to us, and how do we choose to carry it now?

"EMPTY ROOMS," 2020

At Yizkor our breath gets a little ragged together; our voices crack together. The Olan Sanctuary has been home to some glorious music and beautiful sound, but I confess that the most moving of all to me is the communal snuffle that normally fills this space at this time on Yom Kippur afternoon—it is a whisper of the human soul, the essence of truth and pain and love.

But not this year. This year we are in our homes, some of us alone. And while that may bring some relief (not having to get dressed up, or put on mascara that will run anyway), I'll tell you that of all the powerful communal moments we usually share at this season, this is the one when I most miss our being together.

"MIND THE LIGHT," PESACH 2026

The light their lives shone upon ours. The light they nurtured in us, or saw in us even when we couldn't see it in ourselves. The light of the best of who they were, and the light of day that reminds us that they weren't perfect. The light of spirit, still; the light of life, still.

Yizkor Services

2026-2027

In addition to Yom Kippur, we honor the memories of our loved ones throughout the year at festival morning services.

In Gratitude

Temple Emanu-El is grateful to all those who have made contributions in memory of their dear departed ones.

We are grateful to the Rita Paresky Philanthropic Fund for a grant to print this Book of Remembrance. All names received by August 21, 2026 have been included in both the print and digital versions of this book.

Lighting the Yahrzeit Candle

The yahrzeit candle is lit before Yom Kippur begins and burns throughout the day, approximately 24 hours, to remind us that the light and soul of our loved ones is with us. Only one candle is necessary although some prefer to light a candle for each person no longer living. After lighting the candle, pause for a moment of meditation and memory. (There is no blessing for this ritual.)

At Home

MEDITATION

“I Recall”

I call (name) to mind and heart,
the texture of her/his/their life,
its/their presence in mine.

Images rise up
and fall away,
moments in the current of time—

tender, harsh,
extraordinary,
mundane,

that which gives pleasure in recollection
and that which hurts, yet resists being forgotten.

May the threads of memory be woven into the fabric of my life
and bring healing.

Adaped from Marcia Falk, “The Days Between”

KINDLING A MEMORIAL LIGHT

נֵר יְהוָה נְשִׁמַּת אָדָם

Ner Adonai nishmat adam.

The light of God shines in our soul.

– Proverbs 20:27

(I/we) give thanks for the blessing of life,
for companionship,
and for memory.

Our tradition teaches us that we never lose those we love,
for love is stronger than death.

So (I/we) kindle this light now,
and as it burns,
so may the memory of (deceased)
continue to be an inspiration.

Grief, Healing, Hope

TEMPLE IS HERE FOR YOU.

When You Suffer a Loss: Please contact the receptionist at Temple's main number or a member of the clergy. You will be guided compassionately and sensitively through the Jewish mourning practice.

Daily Minyan: Daily Minyan Our daily minyan service meets online at 8:15AM Sunday through Friday. It provides an opportunity to fulfill the mitzvah of saying Kaddish for loved ones. On Shabbat, we invite you to say Kaddish at our services on Friday night and Saturday mornings. For the Zoom link, visit tedallas.org/prayer.

Grief Support: Temple offers ongoing grief support in a variety of ways. Meeting with clergy, the daily minyan, Shabbat and Yizkor services and small in person or online support groups are all ways we offer comfort, healing and strength to those in our community who are grieving.

Memorial Room: The Levine Memorial Room is a quiet refuge in which to pause and reflect about the people who came before us. Bronze plaques in honor of loved ones are available for purchase and installation, and you are welcome to visit the space whenever the Temple building is open.

Temple Emanu-El Cemetery and Mausoleum: Temple Emanu-El Cemetery and Mausoleum The historic Temple Emanu-El Cemetery was established on its present tranquil site on Howell Street at Lemmon Avenue in 1884; it was the second Jewish cemetery in Dallas. Early settlers in Dallas formed the Hebrew Benevolent Society in 1872 to bury their dead. Members of this society went on to establish Temple Emanu-El in 1875.
